Washington, March 11-(A)-Tales of horror, degradation and poverity in the Pittsburgh and central Pennsylvania coal regions are related in the report made to the senate interstate commerce committee today by its subcommittee, which recently inspected that area. A "region of terror" was found at the Broughton, Pa., mine of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal corporation, said the report. Women were found by the committee to be "still nervous from the shooting up of their homes." Miners' wives at Bruceton, Pa., testified that their homes had been "shot

Mrs. Clarissa Englert, of Brough ton, Pa., "told the story of the iron and coal police shooting into a group of school children," the report continued, "and the brutality of the coal and iron police shocked every member

Joe Lubresky, of Harmaville, Pa., is quoted in the report as testifying that he and wife had been evicted from their home owned by the Pittsburgh Coal company when both were ill, being forced to move into union barracks, which were unheated at the time, and that his wife died six days

Police Attack Girls.

Mrs. Eva Barr, of Pricedale, Pa., who appeared before the senate investigating committee yesterday, told the subcommittee that her eight children "were generally in rags," because the $4.08 a day earned by her husband in the Pittsburgh Coal company mines all went for food.

"Men and women were running wild" in Pricedale, said the report, in ondemning the authorities for not eeking to curb the "demoralized" con-litions. Members of the coal and iron olice there were accused by witnesses efore the subcommittee of taking young girls away from their home and

The total value of farm products raised in Georgia in 1927, according to the Georgia department of agriculture, was $250,000,000. Getting down to cases, that means each acre of farm land in the state yielded about ten dollars in 1927.

Cambridge, Mass., March 11.—

(United News)—A "fuel-less" motor, such as has been invented by Lester J. Hendershot, of Pittsburgh, Pa., will never replace the modern internal combustion engine, according to Dr. Harvey Nathaniel Davis, professor of mechanical engineering at Harvard university.

You Can't Be Fit When Kidneys Act Sluggishly.

Do you find yourself running down—feeling always tired and achy? Do you suffer nagging backache, drowsy headache and dizzy spells? Are the kidneys secretions too frequent, scanty or burning in passage?

Know then, that these are often signs of improper kidney action. Sluggish kidneys allow waste poisons to remain in the blood and upset the whole system.

If your kidneys are acting sluggishly, assist them with Doan's Pills. Doan's, a stimulant diuretic, increase the secretion of the kidneys and thus aid in the elimination of waste impurities. Doan's are recommended the country over. Ask your neighbor!

In no other part of the country have I found member more loyal nor leaders more devoted than in the south.

"At the organization of the National Council of Jewish Women, the founding special invitations to women's orders of tee council formulated plans extending special invitations to women's orders of every branch of the National Council of Jewish Women, and it is graitifying to report that there are now 252 affiliated organizations in the United States and similar groups in practically every foreign to section of the National Council of Jewish Women, of the Isignificance that in this number of sections of the country and in the foreign states, there is a well-organized and splendidly trained and equipped group of Jewish women who can be called upon at any time to further the cause of humanity.

from Cairo through Shek Hafiz Wah-ba, who, acting in behalf of Ibn Saud, had tried to pacify he tribes-men of Koweit and bring peace among the frontier tribes.

The trouble between the British government and Ibn Saud, if trouble there is, probably arises out of the preemption of watering places and wells along the border for military purposes and the construction of orts. The treaties signed between the two governments made provision against this, and the British are charged with having violated the treaties in this respect. The tribesmen have resented mediator.

Egypt also presented a problem for the British government to solve. The Egyptian parliament rejected the proposed treaty negotiated by Sarwatt Pasha, the premier, and Sir Austen Chamberlain, the British foreign minister. Then Sarwat Pasha resigned his office for "reasons of health."

Egypt Is Sore Spot.

The British high commissioner, Lord Lloyd, next presented a note to the Egyptian government setting to your own traditions alike bid you to stay, then make the fact and the name agree and show that you are ready to meet in very deed the responsibility which is yours."

Roosevelt was presented with the freedom of the city of London, and the British government has followed his advice, as far as possible, in an endeavor to keep order in Egypt and establish that country on a firm basis.

When Caesar was a boy

The Forum was the common market-place for all of ancient Rome. Today a few crumbling columns stand as mute reminders of its former grandeur.

In our present-day complex civilization, market-places have become scattered. It is no longer possible to visit them all in a morning or even in a day.

Advertising, instead, has become the convenient Forum of modern buyers and sellers. If you are considering the purchase of a new car, you scrutinize the automobile advertising. Of if it's a razor or a talking machine that you want, you turn again to the advertising. Here is the national market-place for merchandise.

Furthermore, as you leaf over those same pages of products, your mind is storing away for tomorrow a compact and valuable fund of information. Instinctively, you will remember those facts when you make your future purchases. Increase your store of knowledge by reading the advertisements regularly.

Advertising has become the common market-place of this twentieth century.

While congress is giving its almost undivided attention to the radio broadcasting situation which prevails in this country at the present time, the interest with which this problem is holding radio fans is more and

Few national legislative questions have been subject to more discussion, few have brought into the capitol more expressions from the public, few have resulted in more charges and counter-charges. The pleasure of millions upon millions of Americans will be affected, no mat-pleasure of millions upon millions of ter how congress acts.

In the last mail the Dial Twister received from an Atlanta radio listener who has given more than the usual study and experience to radio a plea not to cut power. He says:

"Keep up the good fight to clear the air. I don't agree with anybody who wants to cut down power too much. This summer the high power stations are going to be our only saving grace when we don't want to listen to the locals. How else can a station get through the static?"

This same writer speaks some en-

This same writer speaks some encouraging words for the new Canadian station which has been coming through in great shape. "Their stuff comes through crystal clear," he says, "and the programs promise to be exceptionally fine. Above all, listeners will be cheered to know that the announcer keeps his trap shut. He comes in as little as possible, less than any announcer I ever listened to CKGW, Cheerio Station, Toronto," at intervals, the mere name of the next number between times."

The Dial Twister is tuned in on KDKA during Collier's radio hour. The static barrage of the last three or four nights is abating—but slowly. Reception, even from "old faithful," is not just exactly an indoor pleasure, but it is improved over Thursday and Friday nights.

Ans so we leave foreign parts for Atlanta and WSB.

"The Voice of the South" started its station of the south" started its station of the south" started its star

"The Voice of the South" started the voice of the South started its sixth anniversary week celebration Sunday night, and so until the first program in the anniversary week group comes on, we will listen in on the chain features.

The Capitol theater first anniversary the control of the control sary program is on the air. And while we take care of the goldfish and their aquarium, we listen to the close of the hour with "Shadows of the Evening."

David Lawrence, editor of the United States Daily, is the next feature. His short talk on our government Sunday night was on the United States merchant marine. Probability of action by congress this session which would be an aid to private ownership of a United States merchant fleet is encouraging, we learn, Richard Crooks, considered one of the finest American born tenors today, was guest artist during the Atwater-Kent hour in the place of Miss Jeanne Gordon, Metropolitan Opera company contralto, who is ill. His opening number was "Una Furtiva Lagrima," favorite tenor aria from the opera "Elisire D'Amore" and one of Caruso's numbers. Another of his selections was "Absent" (Glenn-Metcalf).

Then followed Irving Berlin's newest song, "Can't Do Without You." This was the first time it ever had been sung, it was announced, as Mr. Crooks had just received it from Mr. Berlin. And we judge it a "hit" and due to be one of Berlin's most popular compositions since his "The Metody Is Ended" or even as far back as "Always." Of course, we had the advantage of Mr. Crooks' famous voice.

For tonight, we will have featured

For tonight, we will have featured programs on three networks, the NBC red and blue chains and the Columbia system. "Modern Love Stories" will open the Columbia programs at Soclock. We suggest KMOX for this half hour. Then will follow at S:30 o'clock, first performance hour, presenting radio debuts of new and little known compositions. At 9:30 o'clock we will have "The Buccaneers" in a novelty program for 30 minutes. All over KMOX—or if you prefer, WAIU or others of the Columbia network. The NBC chains will offer the following: Roxy at 6:30 o'clock over WSB: Riverside hour at 8 o'clock over WSB; the General Motors party at 8:30 o'clock over WSB and the Fisk hour at 9:30 o'clock, also over WSB.

While gambling in cotton or in any other commodity should not be encouraged, the legitimate trading in cotton for actual future deliveries operates to the best advantage of the producers. Otherwise they would be subjected to group interests that would very probably work to their disadvantage. There are times when hedging is essential, both to producing and spinning interests. The alleged concentration of cotton for market manipulations is more of a political than of an economic interest. Cotton is visible. The statistics are definite. It matters not where the cotton is stored know it, and the market will be governed accordingly. Perhaps in the whole political gridiron there is not so much football playing as with the cotton farmers. What they need is less legislation and more determination among themselves to cultivate intensively and to grow a longer and better marketable staple. The fact is, Georgia mills import more than 50 per cent of the cotton consumed on account of the fact that the Georgia staple is largely seveneighths of an inch, whereas it should be fifteen-sixteenths or more.

Let the cotton farmer alone in so far as legitimate contract trading is concerned and the situation will improve. Unrest as to possible legislation always causes depression.

The "Master"

The clean-up of Paris, a proces that has been going on uninterrupted-ly since the visit of the American Legion, has revealed the existence of an individual, a hunch-backed old man who lives at the end of a mysterious blind alley, who is famed in the underworld as the outfitter of beggars. He had a clientele of some 200 customers who paid him an average of 15 francs a week for instruction or an outfit. Did a beggar want to rouse public sympathy? Nothing easier for this old "maitre." In the twinkling of an eye he could camouflage an arm or a leg. He rented out pitiful looking children to accompany beggars on their daily rounds perficial and inconclusive. On any test to which a people can be put this American nation ranks ahead of any tions. Does a healthy man want to look sick? The "master" fixed up his face till he had the appearance it is a carry-over the trade will of a sufferer in the last stages of tuberculosis. He could paint horriblelooking sores on legs, he rented out accordions and had a collection of wooden stumps for legs and straps enough to fill a museum. He was the unseen ruler in the kingdom of beggars, whose voice had the deciding influence at the meetings of the Beggars' union. He could make or break a beggar, he distributed the choice corners to favorites and took away concessions when a tenant proved unruly. Police records give his age as 89. In his possession was found the sum of two million francs in gold and 17,000 bottles of wine that would have brought him at least a hundred thousand dollars in the United States had he been able to export them. The "master" lanquishes in jail at present on some indefinite charges. What he resents most about his incarceration is the fact that some of his disciples. amateurs at the game of outfitting beggars, may have ruined his business before he gets out.

Notwithstanding the fact that Victor Margueritte, the Zola of contemporary French literature, had his name scratched from the lists of the Legion of Honor, the liberal press of France always welcomes a new work ida city. or even an occasional newspaper article by the eminent romancier. And Although it was on the wrong side—the left side, there being no preferred to the charge of war-guilt the oth-less was the sigh of the constant paed to the charge of war-guilt the othtion. It might be recalled perhaps that M. Margueritte once examined the question of responsibility for the outbreak of the war in a book entitled: "The Criminals." His friends assert that it was really this book and not "La Garconne," his sensational "roman de moeurs," that caused official discharge in the country is in pretty safe keeping. er day, his article caused a sensasational "roman de moeurs," that caused official displeasure and his ex-pulsion from the legion. Now M. Margugeritte comes forward with the charge that the French yellow books, which give official versions of important diplomatic events leading up to the outbreak of the war, have deliberately been falsified. He points out to the present government that # he exclaims.

M. Edouard Herriot. France's min-ister of public instruction, has been working on a scheme to make secondary education in the republic free of charge, as is the case already with primary education. Before his proposals become law, however, there will be bitter struggle in parliament over them and in the press of course. The clerical forces are massing their strength for a last tussle with the reformers of education. For the clercal groups consider that the plan make secondary education free o to make secondary education free of charge is a direct blow at their own influence. For if the people of the middle classes could send their sons to the lycees without cost they would be far less inclined to send them to the private Catholic schools. Private schools could not compete with free colleges and lycees. M. Herriot's plan, however, which is but a further step in the direction of the ecole unique, one unified. State-concole unique, one unified. State-con ecole unique, one unified. State-con-trolled educational system for the whole nation, providing opportunities for rich an poor slike, has the sup-port of the powerful radical groups and of the whole left of the chamber. ### The Old Flag Flies High and the Nation Is On the High Road.

There is no people on earth more incerely patriotic than our people. But our patriotism is not of the professional and ballyhoo sort that professional and ballyhoo sort that one encounters in European and Latin American countries. That pleased everybody, and the division was made. But soon there was a quarrel. Two of the men espied an oyster on the beach.
"Divide it," suggested the others. "Or, if you must fight, settle the matter with your fists. We can't have any tragedies in our world."
"No," said the two hot-heads; "we agreed to act as nations do. We

They were buried with military honors and the three men who survived divided the oyster.

Again, in radical changes of the social structure it is frequently impossible to separate the worthy from the worthless, the innocent from the quilty. Two persons died in England because of the intense cold. Heavy snows were reported in England and France.

Japanese destroyers were unable to approach the spots where three of the four vessels went down in Japanese waters because of heavy gales and high seas. Airplanes were sent out to find the vessels but only the Koryu Maru was located.

Rescue crews were immediately sent out to take off the fraight.

Victims of the coal and iron police were found everywhere, the report said. These persons, it was charged, had been "beaten up and were still carrying scars on their faces and heads from the rough treatment they had received." Saying that there were between 500 and 60 such police in the Pittsburgh area, the report described them as "all very large men; most of them weighing from 200 to 250 pounds," and added, "they are all heavily armed and carry clubs usually designated as a 'black jack.'"

Brock and Zoeller Report as Club Starts Second Week

Tom Rogers Is Expected Out Today

Frankie Anxious To Play With Atlanta This Season, He Says.

BY BEN COTHRAN

colonel's callers will be received warmly.

One of them is Johnny Brock, first string catcher with Atlanta for some several years, who motored through the country from St. Louis, arriving here Sunday.

With Brock was Frankie Zoeller outfielder, who has had some arguments with the colonel over the price to be stipulated in Frankie's contract to play baseball for Atlanta this sea-in quite a lengthy verbal workout with Zoeller. The young man seems anxious to play with Atlanta again this year. His showing last season could be termed "not so hot." to lapse into the vernacular, and probably has been. Still, there were several on the club last year who didn't play their best.

This season, a different sort of spirit seems prevalent among the club members and maybe Frankie will catch it. There's no disputing that he played a jam-up game of ball in 1925, when Atlanta won the pennant, He's one of the best lead-off men in the league, and manages to get on base somehow. If he'll play the ball of which he is capable, then he should make the Crackers a good man. make the Crackers a good man.

Anyhow, the Crackers a good man.

Anyhow, the Crackers have no overabundance of outfielders. Paul Strand, in fact, is the only one in camp at present. Spiller is depending on procuring Billy Rhiel from Brooklyn and sticking him in right field, which is a good place for the hard-hitting roungster.

That's two. So here's Frankie in town, ready to play his regular posi-tion. And to paraphrase the trite old saying: A ball player in your own camp is worth three or four in somebody else's. Especially when there's a fancy price hung on those far away.

But the colonel and Frankie will be forced to settle that. Maybe Mr. Spiller will placate the diminutive outfielder, keep him, and get plenty of good ball games out of bim this season. Or maybe he'll sell him and get someone else. That will be settled this morning.

Johnny Brock's trip to the office will be of short duration. He'll dash in, sign his contract, and that will be that. At least, that's what he is in, sign his contract, and that will be that. At least, that's what he is expected to do.

Latest indications point to a wet field for the Crackers today. Saturday's workout ended in a heavy shower of rain. Of course, there was no work Sunday. Bert preferred to give his squad a rest. The sun didn't come out Sunday, either. So, if the diamond's wet, there'll be no practice game today, as planned.

Rain.

And if it's raining, the work will

And if it's raining, the work will be done under the stands, where the boys can throw to each other, and keep nuscles from getting stiff.

Skipper Niehoff Saturday cut off two pitchers, McGuffey and Burnett. The knife is expected to fall on about three more players today.

Johnny Jones, shortstop bought from Syracuse last December, is ex-pected to check-in some time this week. Also Art Olson, who was pur-chased towards the end of last sea-son by the Crackers from Kansas City.

Tom Rogers, who was operated on last Monday for sinus trouble, is almost recovered and expected to be out in uniform today.

HAWK-EYF-ING EXHIBITION Jack Sharkey 2-1 Favorite Maybe?

If someone were to suggest that W. L. Stribling, the aeronautical Colonel Rell Jackson Spiller, presi- fisticuff artist from Macon, would meet Gene Tunney for the heavyweight dent of the Craekers, will receive two championship sometime soon you would probably utter a loud pooh pooh callers at his office this morning. The with a ha ha or two thrown in for good measure.

Nor would that be a surprising reaction to such a suggestion. BUT, such a strange statement is not beyond the pale of possibility. Young Stribling may be drawn into the picture by induction, so to speak. As has been suggested more than once, the elimination plan of Tex Rickard is rapidly becoming an extermination plan. The great promoter is more or less desperate in his desire to find a good drawing card for Tunney's opponent. He is far-sighted enough to see that his extermination contest may leave him high and dry on a sand bar with the run of fish started and him with no bait to use.

As a result he had a long conference with Pa Stribling in New York the other day and don't be surprised if W. L. pushes over a few more Spiller avowed only a week ago that boys, then goes east to fight for Rickard.

> The time is ripe now for Stribling's entry. Sharkey and Risko are about due to mix and if it should happen that Risko came through to victory-which is not beyond probability-Stribling could immediately set up the cry that he had beaten the Cleveland Baker. If the Boston boy wins not too decisively Strib could still maintain that he was as good as Sharkey. Both had beaten Risko.

All this is entirely conjecture, not the opinion of this writer. But here IS an opinion. Tex Rickard would welcome a new face in his elimination trials. The customers are getting a bit tired of these elimination bouts, they have seeen the performers so many times before and where the result is anything but decisive. Stribling, the fighting aviator, has color. He could be built up without much trouble. Tex saw him knock out Martin Burke and was impressed by the performance. That performance could be capitalized as well as a lot of lesser acts staged by the Georgia boy recently.

Yes, it's not beyond reason that Young Stribling may yet get a crack at the big stuff. Many things can be done when two good showmen get their heads together like Tex Rickard and Pa Stribling have been doing here of late.

BY BEN COTHRAN

Another one of the Crackers' many left-handed pitchers. But this young looking old-timer on your right hardly needs any introduction. Still, it's a matter of course. So, this is Sherrod Smith, left-handed pitcher who will play for Atlanta during the session of for Atlanta during the season of 1928.

Sherry is coming to Atlanta straight from the big leagues where he was with Cleveland for five years. Last year he served more in the capacity of coach for the Indians, and was given his release at the end of the season.

He's planning on doing much coaching for the Crackers.

"But," adds Jim Poole, another old-timer who has seen service in

"But," adds Jim Poole, another old-timer who has seen service in the big top, "he'll win plenty of games for Atlanta this year."

Sherry is especially interested in young Frank Chilton, a southpaw of some promise whom the Crackers found in Cedartown 12st summer, playing semi-pro ball, "Sure." rumbled Sherry in the dressing room one day last week, "I want to help all these youngsters as much as I can. Fifteen years in the majors can teach you something.

as I can. Fifteen years in the majors can teach you something, anyhow. Just so long as they'll listen, and don't know any more than I do, then I can help 'em out."

Smith is a big fellow, anywhere or way you look at him. His legs are big. He's broad-should-red, has big hands and powerful shoulders. And they'll tell you up in the major leagues that when Sherrod Smith is on the mound and a runner reaches first, that man stays close to the bag. For Smith has a trick of shooting the ball over to first just when you think its headed for the plac. There's the runner caught flat-footed and, incidentally, out.

ner caught flat-footed and, inci-dentally, out.

He was born 37 years ago in Jasper county, Georgia, on Febru-ary 18, 1891. In 1910 he began his baseball career with Greens-boro, N. C., in the old Carolina league. He stayed there for a year and jumped right into the majors, with Cleveland. In 1911 he went to Pittsburgh and stayed there for two seasons. After that with Brooklyn until the war. After the war he was on the Louisville, American association team. Went from there to Newark in the Intronational and then to the Grand Rapids, Michigan, team. Then in 1923 he was back with Cleveland and with the Indians until the close of the 1927 season.

Smith stands six feet and a little over and weighs 200 pounds. His home is in Mansfield, Ga., and when not at Spiller's that's where he spends most of his time. Smith should be a valuable man to the Crax this season.

Mary T. Washburn, Millrose A. A. New York, won the national 50-yard hurdles in 6 4-5 seconds. This was the first time the event had been staged.

Piedmont Girls Finish Another Good Season

Another Good Season Winding up another good season, the Piedmont girl cagers defeated the Demorest basketeers in a hard-fought game, 24 to 13. The Demorest girls put up a hard battle but could not cope with the smooth working attack of the Piedmont five. The Piedmont girls finished the season with only one defeat marked against them. The Georgia Power company was the only team to defeat them this season. They have lost only three games in five seasons.

Those who disparage Sharkey were not present one night at Ebbett's field, where the Brooklyn Dodgers provide their version of the national passime when the season is right. If Sharkey wins decisively, and it seems certain that he will, the problem of a heavyweight championship bout in June is solved.

Any other outcome to the fight will be disastrous to Tex Rickard's plans. The promoter realizes that he cannot hope to put on a $2,000,000 fight this year. He hopes, however, to put on two $1,000,000 affairs. The profit will not be quite as much, but a poor, and treaden promoter must take down-trodden promoter m what he can get these days.

THE PROBLEM

The sums total of the figures on each of the three elephants pictured herewith are to be given as a solution. You can find the sum total of each elephant by adding up the figures of each. The figures 1, 2, and 3 in the circles in the upper left hand corners of the elephants are simply to identify them. These figures have nothing to do with the elephants' weights.

In submitting your solution you must identify the three elephants by their numbers and give the weights of each. A complete solution means that you are to find the sum total of each elephant. It takes the sum total of each to make one solution. This is a game of skill and not a guess-

There are no "1's' or "ciphers" in the elephants. There are no groups of figures, that is, the figure "9" is the highest figure shown. There are no "23's," "55's" or "97's," or like groups. If you find a "2" and a "3" are written so closely together that it looks like "23," it means that are to be added-just as you would if they were an inch apart.

The tops of the "6's" are distinctly curved, and the bottom of the "9's" are straight or nearly so. There is no trick or illusion in the charts.

GENERAL RULES OF THE CONTEST

1. This contest is open only to residents of Georgia and adjoining states. Both old and new subscribers may enter. No employee or member of an employee's family of The Atlanta Constitution will be allowed to participate in the contest, nor any of the prize winners that have won prizes in excess of $100.00 in any of the elephant contests heretofore conducted by The Atlanta Constitution.

2. Contestants may submit as many different solutions as they may desire, provided a payment of one of the amounts designated in the prize list shall accompany each solution; but no contestant will be permitted to win more than one prize. Once registered a solution cannot be changed. NO SOLUTION ENACCOMPANIED BY A SUBSCRIPTION PAYMENT WILL BE REGISTERED.

3. The Atlanta Constitution offers these prizes for individual effort. Whife it is proper for members of one household or several friends to work together, it is not permissible for more than one of those working in unison to send a solution of the puzzle. When, in the judgment of the contest manager or The Atlanta Constitution, more than one member of the same family or more than one of any number of persons he believes have worked together, send in a solution of the puzzle, the right is reserved to refund the amount of money paid for subscription and return the solution it is believed has been submitted contrary to the rules.

Important Facts To Remember

While the amount you pay with a solution of the puzzle does not have any effect on your winning an award, it does affect the amount you will receive should you win, as the value of these awards is determined by what the winners submit in subscription money. This is explained in the awards list, which you should study carefully before sending in your solution.

The time a solution is received has no bearing upon its winning an award. Accuracy is what counts.

The beautiful French woman of the restaurant comes to see Dr. Sartorius, and Esther learns that she is Lady Clifford. A few days later her husband, Sir Charles Clifford, is stricken with typhold fever and Dr. Sartorius gives up his practice and laboratory work to devote himself exclusively to Sir Charles. Esther is taken on the case as day nurse. Boger Clifford, Sir Charles' only son, arrives in Cannes. Sir Charles tells his son that he has changed his will to the extent of making him executor and trustee of the whole eatate. Roger is attracted to Esther and invites her to dine and dance with him. They go to one of the fashionable restaurants in Cannes.

On returning to the house Roger comes upon his stepmother in the darkened drawing room with Arthus Holliday, who has been paying Lady Clifford some attention. Roger orders Holliday to leave the house.

INSTALLMENT XXXVII.

AN EXPLANATION.

Esther was not sorry to say good night and withdraw to the solitude of her bedroom, although she was far from sleepy. The sense of vague trouble which had so often haunted her since she had entered this house was strong upon her now. It had been an uncomfortable evening in every way, beginning with Roger's enigmatic behavior, which still disturbed her peace of mind more than she cared to admit.

A knock sounded at her door, a man's voice called softly:

"Have you gone to bed yet?"

continued to frown, not looking at her, plainly troubled and exasperated in his own mind.

"I can't tell you all she said, but she told me something about the scène we'd had that put rather a different light on matters. She told me how sorry she was, and I think she meant it. She was quite upset. Do you know, Esther, I felt rather ashamed of myself for—for not having tried to make a friend of her. It seemed as if I'd been a frightful prig. She made me see things a bit from her point of view. I'm sure it hasn't always been easy."

"No. of course not."

"Have you gone to bed yet?" "Have you gone to bed yet?

say anything at all. Please don't, if you'd rather not."

"But I'd like to. I look upon you as a rather more than an ordinary friend. I couldn't let you get wrong ideas."

He 'halted again, frowning at the lighted end of his cigarette. He seemed to find it difficult to start.

"Oh, well, it was like this. About a week ago I had a sort of a brushup with Therese. I can't go into that, but she was very angry, and so was I, and I laid down the law to her abit. I had to. I felt it was the only thing to do. Since then we've scarcely spoken. You didn't get a chance to notice anything wrong, because for several days she was laid up—and for that matter we've never been particularly pally. I don't believe I had said a word to her until I found her in my room, as I told you. That was early this afternoon. Well, just about 7 this evening I was on my way to dress, and when I passed that sitting room of her's she was in the doorway. She called to me and asked me to come inside. She said she wanted to extend the strong of the step above.

amusement, her companion joined her, also vastly lightened in spirits, and or several seconds they were a prey to helpless merriment. The whole affeir was so different now. Roger's fair was so different now. Roger's explanation had taken all the sting out of it. She could understand his guilty look. He had been the battle ground for one of those baffling fights between reason and prejudice, his sense of justice striving to overcome a deeply rooted aversion.

"S'sh! We mustn't make a noise! Good night. I'm off to bed."

"See here. You don't think me a B. F., do you?"

"Certainly not. Why should I?"

"And you don't think now that I was making love to her or anything like that, do you?"

"Well. I'm not quite sure! 4f you keep protesting—" she broke off with a teasing smile, looking down on him from the step above.

"Esther, you—" called to me and asked me to come inside. She said she wanted to ex-pain sometime to me that had been bothering her.

"She was extraordinarily nice, very gentle and appealing and all that. She admitted it was a stupid lie about coming to get a book, that she had tapped on the door and thought she heard me say 'Come in.' Then when she was inside she found out she was mistaken and was about to go out again when I appeared and frightened the life out of her by the suspicious look on my face, so she just said the first thing that came into her head. She made me feel rather a brute. She said, 'You know you always terrify me, Roger, you are so hard, so intolerant. You always think the worst of me, and it never gives me a chance.' I have to admit that's true. I may have been to blame, Estimated the structure of the structure of the structure of the structure. The constant improvements and developments in automatic oil burners is attracting the serious attention of the architects and builders in all parts of this country, and thousands and thousands of these oil burners are being installed in new buildings and homes.

One of the most important developments in the science of oil burning was made when the angular vane nozele was brought out by the W. S. Ray Manufacturing company in connection with its system of rotary attomization. In the older type of machine, the air furnished for combustion needs in the furnace was projected in a line parallel to the axis of the machine and surrounded the atomizing cup the form of the furnace, develops the the straight shot or straight vane nozzle and was only used in small bigh and low pressure in the straight shot or straight vane nozzle and was only used in small bigh and low pressure installations and allows combustion of all fuel to take place before it

The rotary atomizing cup first me-chanically reduces the inflowing oil to a thin film by centrifugal force, which presses the oil tight, no mat-ter how heavy or light, against the cup through the speed of rotation, which speed varies from 900 to 3,600 which speed varies from 900 to 3,600 feet per minute, depending on the size of the burner. The oil leaves the cup at this speed in a tangetical direction and is met by an impact of air from the fan, driven at an angle in the opposite direction, which angle can be varied to suit the requirements of the furnace and the oil film is reduced to almost mist-like particles.

chines, the air furnished for combustion needs in the furnace was projected in a line parallel to the axis of the machine and surrounded the atomizing cup. This method was known as the straight shot or straight vane nozzle and was only used in small high and low pressure installations. It still may be used in various types of industrial work where narrow fire boses are necessary to meet special industrial requirements.

In the usual type of burner installations, however, where modern practice has found large combustion spaces and rapid firing to give higher efficiency than heretofore expected, the angular vane nozzle, in conjunction with rotary atomizing cup, has shown its great superiority over the former type and justified the high expectations of its designer and originator.

by the sensational performance of General Motors common stock on the New York stock market. In six days the price of this stock climbed more than $20 a share, while there was a turnover in that time of around 2,502,-000 shares.

Inevitably, such a spectacular advance was regarded as an augury of good business, particularly for the good business, particularly for the one corporation. The semi-official been taken by the holding company comprised of company officials also received much notice as significant. On the other hand, the maker of automobiles who has been considered the closest rival of General Motors has been slow in expanding produc-tion, a fact which was in large part responsible for the appreciation in value of the corporation's stock. The one really weak spot in the business field was the rubber industry. Prices of rubber futures collapsed badly entailing heavy additions to losses already sustained by manufacturers of the American "rubber pool."

Credit conditions were virtually unchanged throughout the week. There were heavy exports of gold to South American and European markets, and $11,900,000 of the French earmarked gold was removed from New York to Paris. A reduction of $26,000,000 in brokers' loans, however, was hailed as favorable size, and treasury March a favorable sign, and treasury March 15 financing in the form of short term notes at 3.1-4 and 3.3-8 per cent was interpreted as quite in line with the current condition of the money market. The fact that the treasury did not include a new offer for the exchange of third Liberties, which are due in September, was view by many financial observers as an indication that the treasury looks forward to more favorable monetary conditions in

I HAVE SAID IN MY HEART

QUEER OBSESSIONS

Why are we so economical of our good nature and even commor politeness in our every day life with those we love?

It is quite the fashion nowadays to be ashamed of sentiment. Although our younger intelligentsia started this "hard-boiled" epi demic, chiefly to call attention to themselves as citing something new, they did not realize that they were only reiterating a theory that all men and women are born sinners. The only thing new about their exploitation is that they give the impression of wanting to be as crude in their

Lately, however, it can be noticed that the pendulum of human behavior is moving the other way. But it seems to take a long while for many people to learn to be even kind to those who are nearest to them. Personaly, I would rather any one of those whom I meet every day would be overly sentimental than overly critical and I think almost everyone else is of the same mind. This was illustrated the other day in the case of a man whom I know loves his wife devotedly and yet she is perhaps one of the most unhappy women in this commonplace world. This man is a wonderful provider and as far as material things are concerned goes sometimes beyond his means, but he contrives to make wife perfectly miserable by telling her how much he is sacrificing while doing it. He has a most stubborn and morose disposition and when in one of his queer moods will only speak to find fault. He not only criticises his wife but her friends, and when they go out together he makes himself so disagreeable that they only invite him because they love her so much.

And yet—and this is the tragedy of the whole thing—this man can be wonderfully entertaining, more than kindly and especially good company if he wishes.

He has taught himself to seldom smile and when he answers a question it is usually with a monosyllable unless he can contrive an answer that will hurt more. Whenever he is away from home he is courtesy itself with the strangers he meets and not a day passes that he does not phone, telegraph or write a letter to his wife that might not be one from a lover to his sweetheart. This man is full of sentiment but he is so afraid to show it that he

USAGE OF COTTON SHOWS INCREASE

London, March 11.—(P)—The International Cotton federation today reported that the world's consumption of raw cotton during the six months ending January 31 showed an increase of 256,000 bales over the corresponding period ending January 31, 1927. Great Britain, the United States and Germany shared in the increase, while India, China and Japan suffered setbacks.

MANAGER OF CLUB
ON TRIAL AGAIN
FOR LOVE MURDER
Richmond, Va., March 11—(P)—
John Wesley Faison, ex-manager of the fashionable Hermitage club, will go to trial tomorrow for the second time on charges of murdering pretty 31-year-old Mrs. Elsie Holt Snipes of Princeton, N. C., last November 16.

The first trial was in December and the jury failed to return a verdict after two days of deliberations. Faison admitted being alone with Mrs. Snipes in her apartment when she met her death from a bullet wound in her head but declared she shot herself because he told her he was going back to his own wife. leries thronged to capacity, hundreds were turned away Sunday night after every seat in the house had been taken.

Dr. Will H. Houghton, Tabernacle pastor, announced Sunday that the meeting was one of the most successful in the history of the church, while Charles Outlaw, treasurer of the conference, declared himself gratified at the response of Atlanta and the southeast.

Dr. A. H. Ironside, of California, addressed the early morning service Sunday, followed by Dr. M. E. Dodd, president of Dodd college, at Shreve-port, who delivered a message on missionary work.

At 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon Dr. William Lamb, of Australia, addressed a meeting with the last of his series on "Prophecy," while Miss Jean LaMonte, of Chicago, at an early night session, closed her special services for young people, held daily throughout the conference.

Ends at Tabernacle Sunday

Attended by visiting ministers and laymen from all quarters of the southeast, the twenty-third annual Bible conference at the Baptist Tabernacle closed Sunday night with a forceful address by Dr. J. C; Massee, pastor of the Tremont Temple, at Boston.

An eight-day session marked by growing crowds at each meeting was climaxed at the final gathering by a record attendance estimated at upward of 3,200 persons.

With the Tabernacle floor and galleries thronged to capacity, hundreds were turned away Sunday night after every seat in the house had been taken.

The Massee cautioned young people anticipating matrimony to "first take God; put Him into your love compact, build the foundation of your home on your faith in Him, raise your children to the church."

He warned married couples against extravagance, spoke of the "righteous-ness of saving" and declared that nine of ten homes are ruined from debt alone.

Dr. A. H. Ironside, of California, addressed the early morning service.

The speaker in an eloquent and carefully planned sermon discussed the life of Jacob, the penitent sinner, styled an example of God's mercy for the wrongdoer. Penitent Sinner. PoliceMAN INJURED AS AUTOS COLLIDE NINE MEN SAVED had found him.

As they crossed Trinity avenue on Washington street, a car driven by Webster Coll ran across the intersection, careened to miss a speeding ambulance coming from the same di-rection on Washington street as the police car, and plunged into the latter. Officer Clay was tossed through the window onto the pavement, the gun flying from his holster at the same time. Clay was taken to Grady hospital where eight stitches were neces-sary to close the gash in his head, but when he went back to get his gun it was not to be found. He pre-sumes someone stole it.

Reckless driving charges were pre-ferred against both Officer Clay and Coll, though the opinion of both is that the accident was unavoidable.
